VICTIMS OF RECESSION. Some of the 900 workers laid off at American Steel Foundries, effective Friday, file out of the plant at 3:30 p.m., the end of the first shift. The layoff has shut down the plant, except for a small maintenance force which will continue to work. Previous layoffs during the past two years at the plant have affected more than 700 other workers.

American Steel lays off 900

By GEORGEANN MCGEE

Hundreds of steelworkers filed out of the American Steel Foundries plant Friday afternoon with only the hope of returning to work Aug. 10, after learning last week that plant operations would be temporarily halted.

William Donovan, works manager — who made the official announcement Friday — expects the most of the plant's remaining staff not already out of work due to earlier layoffs.

Employees learned the grim news a few days prior to the layoffs from two officers of the Chicago-based firm.

The plant manager said a continued decline in demand for steel castings in the freight car industry is the reason the Granite City plant will be closed from now through the August date.

Plant employees, however, will not be returning to their jobs Aug. 10 if the plant receives no new manufacturing orders during the current shutdown. "We hope business conditions can improve, that we will be able to resume," said Donovan, but for now, he stated, there is no basis to presume there will be work when the layoff period has expired.

Until business conditions improve, the plant will face a "series of multiple weeks without operation," he said.

Workers already have been off the job due to 17 single weeks of plant shutdowns sprinkled throughout the year since May 1981. This will be the first instance the plant is extending a shutdown for more than a week at a time.

The plant manager said 748 employees were already on extended layoffs when the additional 900 employees were given notice last week.

According to L. F. Engel, vice president of manufacturing, and Richard Bernard, director of industrial relations, the recession is "very optimistic" about the future of the company here, when the recession lifts.

As a member of the city's newly-formed Economic Development Committee, Donovan is "very optimistic" about the future of the company here, when the recession lifts.

The manager believes demand for steel railroad castings in the future will far exceed the orders made before the recession. He called rail travel the most fuel-efficient means to carry freight and that future uncertain fuel supplies will promote rail freight.

Both Engel and Bernard held group meetings with employees last Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday to explain the company's situation. The shutdown includes American Steel Foundries annual two-week vacation period July 26 through Aug. 6.

Chemical spill lays unnoticed

TOXIC CHEMICAL CLEAN UP. Workers from the Peoria Disposal Company work Friday to remove 55-gallon drums containing hexachlorobutadiene, a toxic chemical that was spilled at the Illinois Central Gulf railroad yard in Venice. The spill occurred Friday, June 18, but was not removed until Friday. Residents living within 150 feet of the spill became alarmed after watching the crew, dressed in protective clothing, remove the chemical all day Friday. A resident alerted Venice city officials, who did not know of the spill until Friday afternoon.

A toxic chemical spill at the Illinois Central Gulf Railroad yard in Venice, which occurred Friday, June 18, was not cleaned up until a week later, the Press-Record learned Friday.

Venice officials did not learn of the incident until Friday when a resident living near the ICG yard called them after a crew of workers in protective clothing had labored over the spill all day.

The Illinois Environmental Protection Agency (IEPA) in Collinsville was called by the ICG at 8:30 a.m. Monday, June 21, but neither city officials nor nearby residents were told of the spill. Railroad employees in protective clothing worked on the area for a "few hours" June 21 and Powell claims the majority of the contaminated area was cleaned up during that time. However, the material apparently was not removed from the area until Friday and residents living about 150 feet from the spill became alarmed at seeing the crew work all that day.

Hexachlorobutadiene was spilled from a truck waiting to take the chemical to a customer office in St. Louis. The chemical was shipped from West Germany, where it is manufactured, to Chicago and then sent by rail to Venice before being loaded on a truck bound for Moline, Ill. The spill occurred, according to Tom Powell of the IEPA in Collinsville, when an ICG employee and a customer officer opened the truck to inspect the shipping papers.

Jeff Langley, an emergency response specialist with the IEPA in Springfield, said the chemical is highly toxic, but is unusual in that it is not regulated by the Department of Transportation because it is produced in a foreign country. "We don't have any really good toxicological information (on the chemical)," he said.

Hexachlorobutadiene is toxic through skin absorption and inhalation. "Nausea is certainly one of the first symptoms," he said. It is considered to be an intermediate chemical often used as an herbicide or insecticide. Mallinckrodt Chemical uses it "as a solvent for making natural and synthetic rubber," Langley said.

However, a Mallinckrodt spokesman said that the chemical is a raw material which is converted into another substance used to manufacture synthetic rubber.

Powell said the spill occurred because a defect in the barrel caused during its loading in West Germany. "Apparently, from what I can ascertain, when the chemical was loaded in West Germany with the high-end of the container," Powell said. The forklift apparently put a stress crack in the bottom rim of the 55-gallon container and "gyrations" occurring during the chemical's voyage caused the nick to become large enough for some of the chemical to flow out.

Powell said there is no way to know whether more of the toxic substance was spilled during its journey to Venice.

An area of about 5 feet by 5 feet was contaminated by the chemical. Powell said there was no "free standing liquid" in the area and that the con-

Layoffs complicate Steelworkers' plight

Robert Means, district director for United Steelworkers of America, Local 1063, said the latest layoffs at American Steel Foundries come after continued shutdowns have already bid benefit funds and workers' spirits.

Means said that after limited finishing operations are concluded during the next two weeks, more than 700 members of the Steelworkers' local alone will find themselves waiting for the plant to receive new orders before returning to work.

Besides Steelworkers, the layoffs also affect pattern makers, machinists and electricians. Means said 650 other Steelworkers from American Foundries, already on extended layoff status, have "to feel pretty discouraged" about their chances for returning to work in view of the recent events.

The union representative said the first series of layoffs began at the plant about two years ago, peaking last spring.

"This particular industry has been hit hard," Means said about the railroad car construction business.

Although workers could anticipate the latest plant temporary shutdown, he said, there was still no way for most of the workers to financially prepare for the inevitable. With only two or three weeks of work ends meet before the announcement of the prolonged layoffs, according to Means. "There was no way to prepare, because they've already been hit."

The extended layoffs also have left the mark on the employees' benefit fund, leaving funds at a low level. Only workers with 20 years or more on the job will now be entitled to the special plant benefits. "The funds have been exhausted," Means said.

The overwhelming majority will have to depend solely on unemployment benefits, according to the union representative. "Some Steelworkers who have been continuously out of work since the layoffs began already have run out of unemployment benefits. 'I'm sure they're hoping to come back,'" Means said. The union representative, meanwhile, tries to direct them to other jobs or training programs.

"What we can do, we certainly do, but right now, there are no steel jobs in the area."

Several surrounding companies prefer to hire workers from their own in-plant apprenticeship programs and not already skilled workers, he said.

Means said he has no reason to suspect that the local 1063 workers will not be returning to work Aug. 10. According to the union representative, orders in the railroad car steel castings business fluctuate week to week.

He believes it is quite possible that orders could come into the plant during the shutdown period.

Even if the 700 (Steelworkers laid off Friday) return to work in August, "It's not a very optimistic outlook," for the other 650 already on the extended layoff, he said.

Jury to get truck evidence

The Madison County grand jury is to receive evidence Thursday on the alleged forgery of about 125 court orders, a key part of a scheme that looted public financial accounts of an estimated $100,000 to $150,000 during the last two years.

A grand jury subpoena was issued last week for bank records of Ben Urban, a lawyer who serves as the Collinsville city attorney, according to St. Louis and Belleville newspapers. No one has been charged in the probe, Criminal Investigation, it is being stressed.

The Center Bank records are said to include accounts for Gateway Truckers Aid (not affiliated with the Gateway Truck Stop) and Midwest Truckers Aid.

It is being alleged that someone used orders which were supposed to disburse pending overweight truck cases. Cash bonds were released by the county in the dismissal procedure.

The truck bonds stemmed from arrests made at the Interstate 55-70 weighing station in the Collinsville area.

The cases being reviewed generally involve out-of-state trucks whose drivers could be expected to forfeit the bonds as fines, rather than returning to appear at hearings.

Illinois State Police complained that too many Madison County weight charges were being dismissed and a judge reported that he had never seen a court document that purported to contain his signature. The investigation

Father takes unusual interest in son's class

By NANCY WEIL
of the Press-Record

Most parents generally take an interest in the development and education of their children, but Donald Overturf of Madison took a unique approach to his son, Scott's, kindergarten experience at Logan School.

Overturf often class sessions to assist to teacher, Helen Miller. His participation went beyond helping the children learn the ABCs; Overturf brought his knowledge and various items to the class to teach the children more than the basics. "I just had things I thought the kids might enjoy doing and seeing," he said.

Although he did not attend each session, he said he stayed at least an hour every time he was there. At the beginning of the school year, Overturf asked Mrs. Miller if he could help. "I didn't want to interfere," he said. Mrs. Miller gladly and graciously accepted the offer. So did the children.

"I think it (participation) is something that needs to be done. Children need to be shown attention and shown more (than basic kindergarten learning),"

Overturf commented.

Around Columbus Day, Overturf brought models of the explorer's ships to show the children. The class discussion centered on the size of the ships and the sails and how long it took Columbus to cross the ocean, compared to how long it would take today.

For a more modern show-and-tell session, Overturf brought a video camera and equipment and explained how TV works. Inanimate objects were not the only things Overturf showed the children. Once, he brought in a 5-month-old dove. The bird did not have a name so the children named him "Fred."

Overturf also went on field trips with the children. One memorable occasion was a trip to a local pumpkin farm. Bales of hay had been left between the sides. The children viewed the hay tunnel as "a haunted house." Fortunately, Overturf had remembered to bring flashlights so the children could go exploring through the tunnel without fearing the dark.

While Overturf was busy interacting with the children in his son's class, his wife, Theresa, attended to the essentials of running the family's home. Her participation with the class, Overturf said, was more limited, as she prefers staying in the background.

was making cookies for the class and helping with classroom parties.

Both parents are extremely close with Scott, their only child. Scott viewed his father's participation with delight. "He thought dad ought to be teacher's helper. He was really proud of that. The days I couldn't go he would get upset," Overturf explained.

Overturf said Scott often helped explain the items brought to the class as he had seen each of them and knew how they worked. Since the school year ended, the Overturfs have moved and Scott will be attending a different school. The family also made the decision to have him attend kindergarten again. As a premature baby, Scott is just a bit smaller than the other children and his birthday is in October, making him younger than most of his classmates.

Scott also has a "coordination, motivation problem" when it comes to writing and using his hands. Because first graders begin learning to print, Overturf felt it would be more beneficial to their son if he waited a year before moving ahead. "We didn't want to push him," Overturf said.

Family decisions, he said, are often arrived at with Scott's help. He understands why he will be attending kindergarten again and agrees with his parents on the advantages of Overturf's participation beyond helping his son, however. "Children have a lot of different viewpoints. They think about stuff that you don't always think about. They asked a lot of questions and the answers were from way back when I was in school," he said.

"I have a little more insight into how they act. Being with the same child all the time, you know how he thinks and acts, but being with a group, you find out all the little ideas they have. They seem to relate to each other and make their own plans about what to attack," he noted.

Overturf also appreciated Mrs. Miller's work with the children. "It makes you wonder how one teacher can handle 18 little ones. It's really a wonder."

County housing desegregation plan rejected by HUD

By PAIGE ST. JOHN

A desegregation plan authored by the Madison County Housing Authority has been returned to the federal government with a rejection slip.

In turn, two of the four Housing Authority commissioners say they plan to refuse a desegregation proposal made by the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development unless they receive a HUD endorsement of funds to implement the plan.

Housing Authority Executive Director Janet Harolan said the fair housing section of HUD in Washington, D.C., last week sent back its written response to a fair housing plan the authority signed in March. HUD had warned the authority in April, by telephone, that it was rejecting the plan.

In the proposed desegregation plan sent back by the fair housing office, HUD grants endorsement of funds for physical improvements at the housing sites, such as sewer and electrical system upgrades, to implement those projects.

The fair housing office declined, however, to endorse money needed to implement the actual desegregation part of the plan (at an estimated cost of $25,000).

Miss Harolan said she has been told the fair housing office will not endorse that request for funds until the desegregation plan is signed and accepted.

"I have a verbal message that once we have signed the fair housing plan, the federal office will send us something," Miss Harolan said.

Authority Commissioner Robert Dauderman said without an assurance of funds to implement the desegregation plan, the authority could not afford to undertake the project.

"There's just no way we can do it," he said.

The fair housing office's request for a signature first, and promise to recommend money later, does not seem something without the money to implement it," he said.

Housing Authority Chairman Reese Hoskins also said he would not sign a desegregation agreement until funds to implement it are assured. "We don't have the money," he said.

Miss Harolan said she did not think this means a stalemate between the authority and the fair housing office. The board of commissioners will most likely recommend another proposal, and as long as it is obvious the authority is trying to work something out, there will be no federal pressure to sign an agreement, she said.

"They want us to do something, though," she said. "There is still always the threat overhead from Washington that they can withhold our funding if we don't sign something."

The regional office of HUD in Chicago, after a compliance review in March, 1981, stated a need for the authority to desegregate its housing in Madison County.

The intent of the plan is to bring about a racial mix in each housing project in the county to within 15 percent of the racial mix overall in authority housing.

Commissioner Paul Barge of Madison said he would not have any comment on the housing plan until the board meets.

Plenty of gas for holiday, but price up

Motorists are now paying almost what they paid last summer for gasoline, according to the AAA-Auto Club of Missouri's survey of 61 stations on main highways in Missouri and nearby Illinois and Kansas. Prices, which had dropped since last December, rose an average of nine cents per gallon since May.

Last June, motorists paid an average of $1.35 per gallon for fuel. In the May, 1982, survey, the price was $1.22 per gallon, and the most recent survey shows that motorists are now paying an average of $1.31 per gallon.

Although drivers are paying more for fuel, they should have little trouble finding it along main highways during the July 4th weekend as 82 percent of the stations contacted said they will be open on Monday, July 5; 77 percent are open some hours on Sunday; 25 percent close by 6 p.m. on Saturdays; and 39 percent close by 8 p.m. on weekdays. About 16 percent plan to be open 24 hours.

Madison man wounded in face

Following a report of a disturbance with guns heard in the Greiner Homes, Madison, last week, Ricky Salmond of Madison walked into Madison police headquarters and told officers he had been shot in the jaw.

Salmond, 25, was taken to St. Elizabeth Medical Center and admitted for treatment of pellet wounds to the right cheek and an injury to the forehead. He was released later last week.

A 31-year-old Madison man was questioned in connection with the shooting and was released pending further investigation.

SERIES OF INCIDENTS LEADS TO ARREST

Michael P. Mull, 27, of 2436 Illinois Ave., was released at 11:05 a.m. Thursday on a $204 cash bond, following his arrest earlier the same day on two charges of criminal damage to property.

Police initially learned that Mull had been in an argument with Nancy Holt, 2360 State St., at the Scotchman Laundromat in Belleville Village Shopping Center Wednesday night.

Later, Mull allegedly came to her home and kicked in a door and allegedly pulled down telephone lines leading into the dwelling.

BURGLARS FLEE, LEAVING LOOT

Stereo equipment and other items, valued in excess of $4,000, taken last week in a burglary at the apartment of William E. Garrett, 500 W. 2nd St., Madison, were recovered after two men fled from the scene.

A Madison County deputy sheriff observed two men at the rear of the building who ran when he approached. Among the items found in nearby weeds were a color television, video recorder, turntable, equalizer, speakers and a video tuner.

Entry into the apartment was gained by forcing open a rear window.

Men MAKE THREATS AND TAKE SHOTGUN David Elmore, 1935 Grand Ave., last week reported that two men came to his home, threatened him and a friend, and took a 12-gauge shotgun from his apartment.

One man was about 6 feet tall, weighed 200 pounds and had brown hair and a mustache. The second man was 5 feet, 7 inches tall, weighed about 140 pounds and had reddish or light brown hair and a mustache, Elmore said.

Accredit Specialized Services

Specialized Services, Inc., has been notified that it has received a three-year accreditation from the Commission of Accreditation of Rehabilitation Facilities. A three-year accreditation is the maximum recognition awarded by the commission.

Awards are made following a self-study and evaluation by the facility and an on-site visit by a survey consultation team. Areas of interest to the commission are: role of the facility in the community, type of services provided, program objectives, fiscal reports and physical plant.

Survey results are reported to the full commission which then determines the length of accreditation awarded.

Specialized Services is a vocational workshop for the handicapped which has served the residents of Madison County for more than 25 years, with workshop in Alton and Granite City.

Ambulance truck collide

Rushing toward Kirkpatrick Road, where a resident was experiencing breathing difficulty, a city ambulance eastbound on Edwards Street hit the right rear of a pickup truck traveling south on Kate Street at 9:55 a.m. Sunday.

Alan S. Milton, 25, of 206 Jeanette Drive was charged with failing to yield the right-of-way to an emergency vehicle. The right front of his truck then struck a school crosswalk sign near the southeast corner of the intersection.

A passenger in the pickup truck, Cynthia Mueller, 20, of 2422 Lincoln Ave., was injured in the crash.

Escaping injury were the ambulance crew, Jeff Reiter, 25, who was driving, and Jeff LaPere, 27. There was extensive damage to the front of the city-owned vehicle, whose siren and red light had been operating. Milton said he did not see or hear the ambulance, which skidded more than 30 feet.

Pay raises for Ill. judges

Governor James R. Thompson has signed legislation that provides the first pay raise for judges since 1976 and will, he says, help assure that qualified judges continue to sit on the Illinois bench. The raises are effective Thursday, July 1.

"The pay for our judges in Illinois currently ranks below other major industrial states," the governor said. "Signing this bill is a signal that we want to prevent our best judges from resigning from the bench to return to a more lucrative private law practice."

"And if we also are to attract the most able people to take part in our judicial process as judges, then we must make sure that the salary we pay them, while not the same, is at least closer to what they could earn in private practice."

"I am exploring with legislative leaders... ways to appropriately fund the cost of these pay raises given our current budgetary condition," Thompson said.

Senate Bill 1242 provides that the pay increases for the state's 814 judges be phased in over two fiscal years, 1983 and 1984.

In the coming fiscal year, judicial salaries will increase by $2,500 for Supreme and Appellate Court judges. They would receive another $8,500 increase on July 1, 1983, bringing Supreme Court Justice salaries to $75,000 and Appellate Court justices to $70,000.

Under the bill, effective July 1, 1982, circuit judges would be increased by $7,500 this July and on July 1, 1983. Associate judges would increase $8,000 and $7,500 respectively. That would raise circuit judges to $80,000 and associate circuit judges to $80,000.

"This measure has received overwhelming support within the legal community and the news media. Hopefully, we will no longer have to read stories about some of our best judges leaving the bench to take on a sense of duty and honor, we cannot expect them to make unreasonable financial sacrifices," Thompson said.

The Fiscal 1983 impact of the bill would be $6.97 million while the cost after full implementation would be $13.73 million.

Sponsors of the measure were Senator Arthur Berman and Representative Ronald Searney, both of Chicago.

Shots fired at house

What was believed to have been exploding firecrackers heard at approximately 2:45 Thursday morning was later found to be shots fired at the home of Diane White, 1628 Second St., Madison.

Madison police found while investigating the shots later that morning, four slugs from what was thought to be a 38-caliber gun. During questioning, some neighbors said they heard the loud noises, but thought they were firecrackers.

Miss White noticed chrome molding damaged on her 1977 Ford, parked next to her house, later that morning and notified the police.

A single slug was found in the car, one above a garage door and two imbedded in the asbestos siding of the home. The window in the garage door also was shot out and an awning on the house was damaged by a ricocheted bullet.

Police say the investigation is continuing.

GC unemployment climbs to 17.1%

More discouragement for already depressed Granite City officials came during the weekend in the form of the latest unemployment statistics for the city which show that unemployment was a full percentage point higher in May than in April.

The latest preliminary figures show that 17.1 percent of Granite City residents were unemployed in May, up from 16.1 percent the previous month. Granite City far exceeded other major cities in the area in unemployment again in May, although moderate increases in unemployment were noted in some other cities. Belleville's unemployment is now 14.4 percent, Alton follows at 12.3 percent and East St. Louis showed 10.8 percent of the population seeking work.

According to Valde Gerstenecker of the Research and Analysis division of the Illinois Department of Transportation, the picture is not good in most areas. "Employment reductions are contrary to normal April-May trends. The rate of unemployment persists at double digit levels in most areas," she noted.

The 17.1 percent unemployment in Granite City is much higher than the statewide average in May of 10.6 percent, according to the preliminary statistics.

Several counties in the seven-county area studied by the Department of Labor office in Belleville show unemployment below the state level, including Monroe County at 7.9 percent, Clinton County at 9.5 percent, Bond County at 10.1 percent and St. Clair County at 10.5 percent.

Counties showing unemployment rates higher than the state average include Madison County at 11.5 percent, Jersey County at 13.5 percent and Calhoun County at 15.4 percent.

The total workforce in Granite City (employed and those seeking work) declined from 19,150 in April to 19,079 in May as the number unemployed increased from 3,091 to 3,336, an increase of 256 unemployed persons.

With the layoff of nearly 900 persons last Friday at American Steel Industries, June and July figures are not expected to show major improvements.

In Madison County, where unemployment grew from 11.3 to 11.5 percent from April to May, the preliminary May statistics show that of a workforce of 120,316, a total of 13,998 persons are actively seeking work. Statewide, of 5,548,000 persons in the workforce, 586,000 were unemployed in May.

Incident ends in arrests

Michael R. LeBrun, 21, of 3817 Village Lane, was charged with resisting arrest, battery and putting glass on a highway after a vehicle in which he was a passenger failed to negotiate a turn onto Edwardsville Road from Namecki Road, ending up across the median early Thursday.

An officer reported seeing the vehicle traveling south in the 2900 block of Namecki Road, with the driver allegedly disregarding red traffic lights at East 25th and East 23rd streets and Edwardsville Road.

Upon the arrest of the driver, Joel A. Wertha, 309 Warson Lane, Mitchell, who was charged with disobeying a traffic light, LeBrun allegedly threw a glass bottle on the pavement, refused to get into a squad car and pushed the officer, who wrestled him to the ground and summoned a backup unit.

During the booking process, LeBrun reportedly cursed and threatened officers and again pushed the arresting officer.

Park to buy truck, tools

At the Wednesday night Granite City Park District Board meeting, the board appropriated $2,000 to purchase tools and $5,000 to buy a truck.

David Nolan, director of parks and recreation, said the truck will be a small-sized pickup that will be more efficient on fuel.

Some of the more expensive tools that money has been set aside for are a band saw and a drill press to make signs and work on equipment. Hand tools such as hammers, rakes and saws are the smaller tools to be purchased. The tools are to be bought from Sears, Roebuck & Co. to get a warranty, it was decided. The board decided not to buy a steam cleaner for $900. The park has been using the city's steam cleaner and plans to continue to use the cleaner until its own can be purchased, Nolan said.

Nolan said that the city's sanitation department has promised better coverage of mosquito spraying during the Fourth of July holiday period. The park district does not have its own licensed mosquito spray operator, therefore it must rely on the sanitation department's sprayer.

"It is hard to spray for bugs when it rains as much as it has. Spraying should occur 14 days after it rains, because that is when the larvae are ready to develop. It usually has been raining before the 14 days are over," Nolan explained.

The board also discussed reports from the swimming pool, concession stand and the recreation area.

The Bi-State Development Agency's transit division has eliminated 57 administrative jobs, it was announced Friday, effective now for non-union personnel and in two weeks for union members.

The action is part of efforts to balance the 1982-83 transit budget. The transit staff had been cut earlier from 3,374 in 1980 to 2,063, and is expected to total 1,946 in late July. New transit divisions are operations, "Comptroller, administration and planning-marketing."

Chemical spill

taminated spot was immediately covered with an absorbent material. He claimed there was no danger to nearby residents from the chemical.

Powell said that ICG security was notified of the spill and took proper measures to keep the curious or unknowing away from the contaminated area. But during the time the Press-Record was at the location, a young woman was seen walking a dog close to the area and members of the Press-Record staff drove a marked van to the site without being stopped.

"Security personnel were not at the site at that particular time."

Venice Mayor Tyrone Echols was "extremely upset" because he was not notified of the toxic spill by railroad officials and promised an investigation "as that 'in detailed report' could be filed."

"I just for the benefit of the citizens."

"I also expect a little better cooperation from the railroad," Echols declared.

As Echols spoke, four employees of the Peoria Disposal Company worked to clear the contaminated area. A chemical was placed in blue 55-gallon containers and removed from the site. More than 30 barrels were sitting near the contaminated area, but it is not known how many of them were filled with hexachlorobutadiene.

According to Powell, EPA regulations do not require the city officials be notified of toxic spills unless it is an emergency situation. "Things like this happen every day," he said, "but that kind of mess of the dirt in the area of the spill was shovelled up Monday evening, June 21. 'We got most of the highly-contaminated area had 'basically been left' until the following Friday."

Although the material is toxic to humans, Powell said, "There wasn't any immediate danger to the outside environment." The men working on the contaminated area were dressed in protective clothing because "they have their noses right over it (the chemical)," Powell said.

According to Powell, the only danger to residents would have been if they had "come over, rolled around in it and breathed the fumes." He added that the area would have been evacuated had the spill caused an "emergency" situation.

The chemical does have an odor, but Powell could not describe it. He also said that the chemical is extremely dangerous to aquatic life and that if it rained before it was removed, the substance could have washed into the sewer system and ended up in the Mississippi River. Because the contaminated area was covered, he claimed the run-off would not occur.

It has not yet been determined how much of the chemical actually was spilled.

News notes

An error in wording of Madison County's new anti-drug paraphernalia ordinance may require it to be acted upon again by the County Board.

The corporate takeover law enacted in Illinois four years ago violates the U.S. Constitution by impeding interstate commerce, the U.S. Supreme Court ruled last week. The law regulates tender offers for corporate ownership shares.

Quad-Cityans were among those observing the 25th anniversary of the United Church of Christ at the St. Louis convention center Sunday, The Rev. Dr. Jerry Post, UCC president, spoke at a service preceding a dinner.

Women backing the Equal Rights Amendment splashed animal blood on floors and walls of the Illinois Capitol in anger over a 31-27 Senate vote Friday that helped block ratification. Nine were freed on $500 bonds but Secretary of State Jim Edgar is asking a circuit judge to sentence them to prison for vandalism.

A telephone in the St. Louis metropolitan area Saturday night raised $97,643 in pledges for the United Negro College Fund.

Legislators have approved executing condemned Illinois prisoners with drugs rather than electricity.

Illinois' borrowing from the U.S. for unemployment benefit funds has reached $1.6 billion.

State senators voted 45-11 Friday for election rather than appointment of commerce commissioners.

A proposed law sent to the Illinois governor would require auto dealers to close on Sundays.

Mathews family reunion attended by 117 members

Descendants of Mark and Ella Mathews attended a family reunion held in the home of Mrs. Dorothy Mathews and Sandi Adams, 3132 Willow Ave., and were served a barbecue luncheon on the lawn at tables decorated with arrangements of summer flowers.

There are 117 members of the immediate family including children, grandchildren, great-grandchildren and great-great-grandchildren. During the social event various games were played and prizes won. Photographs were taken throughout the day to be recorded in the family history album.

A wall hanging of the family tree, color coded by generations, and old pictures with the history of the family was displayed and as each one arrived they were given a color coded name tag.

The late Mr. Mark Mathews was born in Greene County, Ill., and came to this area at the age of 14. He secured work as a water boy when Niedringhaus Avenue was first being laid out according to the city plat. He first arrived in Alton by riverboat and later moved to Kinderhook, now known as Granite City.

His wife, Ella, a native of Pike County near Pearl, Ill., traveled by covered wagon to the area. They were married in Belleville in 1899 and moved to a house over the levee (now Rock Road).

In 1905, Mr. and Mrs. Mathews purchased a house at 2114 Illinois Ave., and reared their family of eight children at that location.

Members of the immediate family are Marceline Dawdy, Dorothy Jones, Opal Landman, Irene Haug, Ellis Mathews and Alta Turner. Another son, Earl Mathews died in 1978, and a daughter, Mrs. Golda Boyle, died this year.

Mr. Mathews died in 1959 and his wife died in 1968. Their house was sold to the Second Baptist Church in the early 1960's and was torn down to be used as a parking lot for the church congregation.

After his marriage, Mr. Mathews started a dairy route in the area, using a horse and wagon for delivery and later sold the business to Massey Dairy. He also owned the first moving van in Granite City and sold it to Vice Dickey.

Continuing his self employment, Mr. Mathews started digging basements for homes which were constructed around the Wilson Park area. In later years he purchased a large truck and began the business of delivering coal for people who used stoves for cooking and heating their home and later for furnaces and stokers.

Prior to his retirement Mr. Mathews worked as a custodian at schools in Granite City.

The eldest member attending was 79 and the youngest was 7-months old. Next year the group will gather at the home of Vince and Lana Rogier's home for the annual reunion, it was announced.

Immediate family members attending were Mrs. Dawdy and children Dick and Debbie and their families, Mrs. Dorothy Mathews, Sandi and Mark and families, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Jones, Sheila, Shelly and Sherri and families, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Landman, Ron, Phyllis and Lana and families, Mr. and Mrs. Fred

Research project to protect urban areas, parks, forests

Governor James R. Thompson announced a major research project to protect Illinois' urban areas, parks and forests from damage caused by the gypsy moth and said the State will aid local governments in controlling the pest.

The effort to develop biological control alternatives to insecticide spraying will be supported by a $100,000 state appropriation within the budget of the Department of Energy and Natural Resources, Thompson said.

The gypsy moth, which has inflicted millions of dollars in damage to forested areas in the northeastern United States, has invaded Illinois during the past two years.

"Controlling the gypsy moth has considerable economic and aesthetic value to citizens who own property, because Illinois has a large proportion of susceptible trees," Thompson said.

The requested funds will support a concentrated, responsible research effort whose total cost is small when compared to the costs of combating a gypsy moth epidemic.

"I am confident that if an effective biological control can be found, the Natural History Survey will find it."

The five-part research project by the Department's Natural History Survey Division will include:

—Collecting data on forest species composition and moth-feeding habits to predict locations of high probable damage.

—Determining egg and larvae predators as possible natural controls.

—Identifying secondary pests and diseases from which trees defoliated by the gypsy moth caterpillar ultimately die, and devising management practices to minimize tree mortality.

—Studying the impact of tree defoliation on other plant and animal species.

—Informing homeowners of effective neighborhood control techniques.

To complement the research, the state will provide technical assistance to localities through the Department of Agriculture, including identifying the magnitude of the problem and advising on available control options, Thompson said.

Under the plan announced, local communities would be responsible for deciding whether or not to spray to limit the gypsy moth populations. If funds are available, the Department of Agriculture may provide cost-sharing assistance for spraying. Nine northeastern Illinois communities were sprayed last month. That program has ended.

The gypsy moth was introduced into the eastern United States more than 100 years ago and has moved slowly westward. Much of its westward movement is attributed to people who inadvertently carry eggs on their campers or move firewood wood with their household belongings.

Caterpillars emerge from the egg clusters in the spring, crawl into trees and consume the foliage.

Because each female moth can lay as many as 1,000 eggs, populations develop very rapidly. Last year gypsy moths were trapped in 13 Illinois counties. Oaks and white pines are among the more than 300 species of trees and shrubs that are affected.

The most severe defoliation and tree mortality usually occurs where dry soil conditions exist. Trees weakened by defoliation also are more susceptible to secondary invaders such as borers and fungi.

The Natural History Survey is based in Champaign-Urbana and has field stations at various locations within the state. Since 1888 it has researched and gathered information on the plant and animal resources of Illinois, made recommendations and published reports on environmental quality, performed research on plant diseases and pest control and developed management techniques to enhance fish and wildlife resources of the state.

Amvets 51 Auxiliary earns state honors

Numerous honors and awards were won by Amvets Post 51 Auxiliary during the state convention in Champaign. Betty Wilkins, president of the Auxiliary, announced at the regular meeting.

Among the many awards received by the Auxiliary was first place in the Amvets Auxiliary Americanism essay contest. The winning entry was written by Ann Krystopa, a sixth grade student at St. Elizabeth School, and was entitled "My Home - America." Her essay won top honors in the local contest, sponsored by Amvets Auxiliary 51 and was sent on to be judged in the state finals. The state first place award is a $50 bond and engraved plaque. She will receive the saving bond and the plaque at a reception given in her honor on July 6 at 7 p.m. at the Post home.

A "Special" Americanism Award plus second place honors for Americanism projects for Auxiliaries with 10 to 50 members also were received. The local group was awarded to those won: First place department scrapbook award, a special child welfare award, a third place "Reporter's Award" to Glenda Brockman, a first place individual hospital award and an auxiliary member of the year trophy to Ann Tucker.

President Wilkins also announced that Glenda Brockman won the election for the office of department sergeant-at-arms. Mrs. Brockman is an immediate past president of Division Five Amvets Auxiliary and is a member of Amvets Auxiliary 51, holding the local office of sergeant-at-arms.

During the meeting, a letter of thanks was read from John Cochran Medical Center for the $25 donation sent on behalf of the Alcoholism Dependency Treatment Unit. Plans were made for the Auxiliary to have fish fries on July 30 and Aug. 27; a Fourth of July picnic with members bringing covered dishes, and aerobic dance classes to start on June 28 and to continue every Thursday until the end of August.

Junior Vice President Jenny Kidwell reported that she and Senior Vice President Barbara Siebert shopped for many needed items for the residents of the Edwardsville Sheltered Care Home. A $600 grant was received from the Illinois Amvets Service Foundation for this purpose. A presentation of these items will be made when the Auxiliary holds its next ice cream social on July 13 for the residents of the home. The monthly Bunco party for the hospitalized patients at John Cochran VA Medical Center will be held on June 28, according to President Wilkins, who also announced that she and Glenda Brockman had presented snack food items to the USO at Lambert Field.

President Wilkins gave a report on the state convention and mentioned that the following members of the post had attended: William and Shirley Schleichang, Charles Jr. and Betty Wilkins, Elsie and Ann Tucker, Glenda Brockman, Joe White and Clay Varner.

Prior to the closing of the meeting, President Wilkins, who also is the Americanism chairman, presented American flag to Barbara Siebert and Linda Stroud. The next scheduled meeting of the Auxiliary will be July 14.

DAV Chapter hears council convention reports

A report of the business conducted at the state convention of the Disabled American Veterans was discussed at the June meeting of Quad-Cities DAV Chapter 53. Local delegates attending the convention were Lawrence V. McGuire, Lawrence Lockhart, Joseph Heffley, and Robert Pine. Chapter 53 was awarded a plaque by the Department of Illinois Membership Committee in recognition of their achieving the third highest percentage increase in membership of all chapters in Illinois.

Gary Klein, national service officer of the Chicago Office, was introduced to the members by George Krpan. The national service officers represent veterans at VA Regional Office levels on claims for compensation, death benefits for veterans' widows, and matters of hospitalization, VA insurance, etc. This service is free at both the chapter level and the VA regional office level. It was noted.

Lawrence Lockhart and Robert Pine reported their service activities at the chapter and John Cochran VA hospital. They added that to the Colonias Nursing Home and Harry Laws has been released from intensive care but is still hospitalized and is recovering slowly.

Joseph Heffley read a communication from the Illinois Job Service advising that there are job openings for disabled Vietnam veterans for Veterans Employment Representatives I (VER-I). Further information is available from Heffley after 11 a.m. Friday, by calling 676-7816.

Donations to OATH, Catholic Charities, and Protestant Welfare were approved upon recommendation of Andrew Gilchoff, chairman of the Screening Committee. Other members serving on this committee include: Roland Fiedler and George Krpan.

Karen Sykes is pioneering boys' tee ball

Karen Sykes, the only girl playing tee-ball this summer in the Granite City Park district program, gets ready to catch a pop fly. While she likes being the pitcher for her team, Miss Sykes said she prefers batting. The seven-year-old does not see herself as being particularly different from most little girls her age.

By NANCY WHEEL
of the Press-Record
Karen Sykes does not feel like a pioneer for the women's liberation movement. Nor was she particularly put out by the ERA's defeat. Then again, Miss Sykes is only 7 years old and admittedly a bit young to be a crusader. But she is, in her own little way.

Miss Sykes is a pitcher on a tee-ball team in the Granite City Park District. So far as anyone can determine, she is the first little girl to enter the boy's domain in the park district although a couple of girls played baseball before the younger age groups were eliminated.

She first got the idea to play tee-ball when her uncle, Barry Sykes, decided to coach a team. "He had a team and I wanted to be on it," Miss Sykes said. Simple enough.

The remainder of the story also is surprisingly simple. She said she has not had any real problems from her teammates or her friends. Except sometimes other teams feel they should not be defeated by a team with a girl on it, said her uncle. So far, none of the teams have been defeated as Miss Sykes' team is 0-4. But not, said her uncle, because there is a girl on the team.

"If all the boys played as well as Karen we'd probably be 6-0," Miss Sykes, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George (Carolyn) Sykes, is about the biggest player on the team. She is slender and taller than most boys her age. She also is a good athlete playing soccer and learning to play basketball in addition to tee-ball.

At first, she was not going to be the pitcher, but Adam Faisick, the original pitcher, got hurt in the first game when he hit the pitching rubber and hit him in the face.

"He resigned," Mrs. Sykes said. The fact that she was replacing an injured player, worried Karen a bit, she said. "I thought I was gonna get hit because I'm too close to the tee."

In tee-ball, the pitcher does not throw to batters. Instead, the ball is placed on a plastic stand, called a tee, which can be adjusted to suit each batter's height and preference.

Miss Sykes said she prefers batting to pitching because more happens. She is a good hitter and most often gets on base.

Athletics are a big part of the Sykes lifestyle. Miss Sykes has two older brothers, George, Jr., 18, and Craig, 12.

"The boys always played ball. From the stroller on up, Karen has always watched ball games," Mrs. Sykes said. Not one to settle with watching, she soon started to become involved.

But tee-ball is a new addition to Miss Sykes' sporting life. She said she already likes tee-ball better than soccer because even though her soccer team fared much better during its season.

Miss Sykes does not, however, intend to continue playing on boys' teams. "I think I'll switch to softball," she said.

Her parents would not have any problem if their daughter did decide to play on a boy's baseball team. "I think it would depend on her skills and how the team felt, how the boys reacted," her father said.

It is not easy to imagine Miss Sykes continuing on boys' teams. She seems to be the classic example of a prim and proper little girl. Her fingernails were painted pink to match her shorts and shirt and her long blonde hair was pulled back on one side with a matching barrette.

Sports might be a big part of her life, but certainly athletics do not dominate. She attends Froebel and gets good grades. Reading is important to her as is playing with her friends and her dolls.

"I think she keeps it in her perspective. She realizes it's a boy's sport," Sykes said. He added that his daughter is "keenly aware she's the only girl."

Indeed, Miss Sykes said she wishes a few more girls would play tee-ball. "Then I wouldn't be the only girl," she said.

While Miss Sykes said she has no idea what she wants to be when she grows up, she does know where she wants to go to college. "SU," she said, Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville appeals to her because "it's pretty there."

But there is another reason. "George goes there," she said. Miss Sykes' oldest brother attends SIUE. Her mother said that her only daughter is affectionate. While she is close with her brothers, she sometimes fights like all siblings do. But overall, she expressed admiration for her brothers, who often cheer her on from the sidelines.

At such a young age, it is not easy for Miss Sykes to imagine herself years from now. But one thing is certain, she wants to play sports "as long as I can."

Civics end slump; take 2 from Cougars

By AL BARNES
For the Press-Record

EDWARDSVILLE — After losing seven straight games, the Western Illinois Cougars ended their losing streak Sunday at Hoppe Park by sweeping both ends of a double-header, romping over the Jefferson City, Mo., Cougars, 11-1, and then devastating the visitors 15-3. The Civics, now 12-10, will continue immediately to the Cougars' home game Saturday at Plo Valley College to the West County Slugs nine tomorrow.

Leading up Sunday's two victories, the Civics had dropped a heartbreaker Saturday at Plo Valley College to the West County Slugs, 7-8, after leading throughout the game, and being edged by the St. Louis Knights on Friday night at Granite City South in a real squaker, 2-1.

Thursday night at Hoppe Park, the Belleville Bud Lites had avenged an earlier season loss to the Civics by winning 6-1.

Jack Scarborough of Civic City and Bill Stoltz, both of whom starred for Southern Illinois University-Edwardsville in their undergraduate days, paced the Civics at the plate Sunday.

It was Stoltz's three-run fouragger in the second frame which got the Civics off to a running start in Sunday's opening game. In his last four games, Stoltz has gone eight for 14.

Scarborough, in Sunday's first game, went two for four and drove in one run. In the nightcap, shortened by the 10-run rule, the slender and fleet footed Scarborough was a perfect three-for-three.

In the second game, though, the big bats of George Vogel and Keith Hockinson truly devastated the Jeff City club. Vogel drove in three runs, while Hockinson's fourbagger triggered the Civics' big four-run second frame. Tim Gamble, three-for-four, and John (Cookie) Victorian, two-for-two and two RBIs, added greatly to the Civics' attack.

The Civics' hard-hitting first-baseman and outfielder, Darrell Wehrend, broke out of his three-game hitting slump as he hit safely twice in three trips up.

In Sunday's second game, the Civics' lanky (6-foot-6) southpaw, Vince Broderick, an ex-Edwardsville High senior, allowed only five hits as he posted his third victory to go with one loss. In the opener, too, the Civics may have found another starter in Tim Bakers of Trenton, Ill. He fanned six and looked great except in the fourth when Jeff City's leadoff man worked the Civics to 3-2 (while fouling off 10 pitches) and then blasted one over the left field fence for the only run he allowed.

Bobby Hughes, the player-manager of the Civics, snapped out of a mild slump for him — in the opener Sunday when he went two for three.

In their slump the Civics have lost seven games by just one run.

The Civics' 8-7 loss Saturday to the West County Browns was marred by rain and a call by the home plate umpire, Harold Hager, only slightly worse than the home-run call against the Cardinals recently, in foul territory.

The Browns, down 7-5 going into the final inning, scored their winning run on a high foul pop which fell four feet foul to everyone but the home plate official, who refused to ask for help from the base path ump who was standing right on the play.

Stoltz's fourth hit in four trips in the game Saturday at Plo Valley had given the Civics what appeared to be a safe lead as he drove in the third of his three RBIs to make the score 7-5 for the losers.

Leading up Sunday's two victories, the Civics had dropped a heartbreaker Saturday at Plo Valley College to the West County Slugs, 7-8, after leading throughout the game, and being edged by the St. Louis Knights on Friday night at Granite City South in a real squaker, 2-1.

Thursday night at Hoppe Park, the Belleville Bud Lites had avenged an earlier season loss to the Civics by winning 6-1.

Jack Scarborough of Civic City and Bill Stoltz, both of whom starred for Southern Illinois University-Edwardsville in their undergraduate days, paced the Civics at the plate Sunday.

It was Stoltz's three-run fouragger in the second frame which got the Civics off to a running start in Sunday's opening game. In his last four games, Stoltz has gone eight for 14.

Scarborough, in Sunday's first game, went two for four and drove in one run. In the nightcap, shortened by the 10-run rule, the slender and fleet footed Scarborough was a perfect three-for-three.

In the second game, though, the big bats of George Vogel and Keith Hockinson truly devastated the Jeff City club. Vogel drove in three runs, while Hockinson's fourbagger triggered the Civics' big four-run second frame. Tim Gamble, three-for-four, and John (Cookie) Victorian, two-for-two and two RBIs, added greatly to the Civics' attack.

The Civics' hard-hitting first-baseman and outfielder, Darrell Wehrend, broke out of his three-game hitting slump as he hit safely twice in three trips up.

In Sunday's second game, the Civics' lanky (6-foot-6) southpaw, Vince Broderick, an ex-Edwardsville High senior, allowed only five hits as he posted his third victory to go with one loss. In the opener, too, the Civics may have found another starter in Tim Bakers of Trenton, Ill. He fanned six and looked great except in the fourth when Jeff City's leadoff man worked the Civics to 3-2 (while fouling off 10 pitches) and then blasted one over the left field fence for the only run he allowed.

Bobby Hughes, the player-manager of the Civics, snapped out of a mild slump

for him — in the opener Sunday when he went two for three.

In their slump the Civics have lost seven games by just one run.

The Civics' 8-7 loss Saturday to the West County Browns was marred by rain and a call by the home plate umpire, Harold Hager, only slightly worse than the home-run call against the Cardinals recently, in foul territory.

The Browns, down 7-5 going into the final inning, scored their winning run on a high foul pop which fell four feet foul to everyone but the home plate official, who refused to ask for help from the base path ump who was standing right on the play.

Stoltz's fourth hit in four trips in the game Saturday at Plo Valley had given the Civics what appeared to be a safe lead as he drove in the third of his three RBIs to make the score 7-5 for the losers.

McDonald's slips past Maryville

A sigh of relief could have been heard from the coach of McDonald's baseball team, Ray Harris yesterday. Despite McDonald's 11-8 victory, it seemed to many that McDonalds could have lost the first game of a double header.

"We were ahead of Maryville, 8-1 and all of a sudden we exploded and at the same time Maryland exploded. We started making errors and throwing balls everywhere but where they needed to be, while Maryland began bringing in runs one after another," explained Harris. Maryville scored seven runs in the sixth inning to boost their score and tie McDonalds, 8-8.

Shortstop, Rodney Woods; catcher, Bob Ricker; left fielder, Danny Bider; third baseman, Mark Bonebrake; center fielder, Jim Holchek; right fielder, Dale Fehlehaus and second baseman, Tony Kosky brought in the seven runs for Maryville that tied the game at 8-8 during the top of the sixth inning.

McDonalds stopped communicating with each other and I counted at least six errors. This made me nervous so I told my boys to stay on top and start talking more," explained Harris. "I'm not used to that many errors," he added.

McDonalds took Harris' advice and scored three runs in the bottom of the sixth to surpass Maryville 11-8. Schaus, third baseman, John Vrenick and Ford were responsible for passing up Maryville. Ford hit a homerun to bring in all three players.

Maryville began the seventh inning with their first three players up to bat making outs. Because of their lead, McDonalds did not have to bat and won the game after the top of the seventh.

The second game of the double-header, McDonalds shined again and upset Maryville 4-1. For McDonalds Hogan, Schaus, Vrenick, and Ford came through again and each scored a run.

Including these two victories, McDonalds now has a winning record of 8-4. Maryville's record is 3-7. "One good thing about my team is that I have good relief pitchers. That always helps a team," said Harris. McDonalds lost their original third baseman, Dan Fechte, at a recent game in Edwardsville. Fechte was carried away by an ambulance for a dislocated shoulder. "Fechte was one of my better players. He had a batting average of .400, the highest on the team," said Harris. Luckily, for McDonalds Vrenick was found just in time!

"I was worried at first, but we've got Vrenick now and he's a good player and I'm proud of what he's done for us," said Harris. "I'm sure glad I found him."

McDonalds faces Corral Liqueurs in its next game on July 11 at 1 p.m.

Corral takes pair from Edwardsville, now 7-3

GRANITE CITY — In what can only be described as a "crash" afternoon of baseball," Corral Liqueurs outscored Edwardsville 28-20 in two games to take both ends of a double header Sunday in Inter-City Baseball League action.

In the first game, Corral edged the Nationals 8-6. Much of Corral's success in the first game can be attributed to starting pitcher Ken Crawford. Crawford struck out eight Nationals, allowing only four runs in the first 6 and one-third innings. Crawford was relieved by Mike Robertson, who held on for the save.

The victory boosts Crawford's pitching record to 3-2.

In the second game, Corral jumped to a seven to two lead after the first inning. Edwardsville held Corral scoreless the next three innings while they managed to score three in the top of the fifth to take an eight to seven lead.

In their half of the fifth, Corral exploded to score 11 runs to take an 18 to eight lead. John Kreckovich was Corral's catalyst in that inning as he doubled with one to score three runs.

Edwardsville retaliated with two runs in the sixth and four in the seventh, but it was too little too late. McDonalds managed an additional three runs in the sixth to seal the victory 21-14. For Corral, Doug Rains went the distance. The victory adjusts Rains' record to 4-0.

The victories bolster Corral's record to 7-3 on the season. They still lead the league, followed by McDonalds in second on percentage points.

Ken Crawford looks home, checks a runner at second and then pitches.

Silkwood headed to Cards' farm

EDWARDSVILLE — Joe Silkwood, the ace relief pitcher who led the baseball Cougars of Southern Illinois to a first place finish in their first NCAA Division II Regional Tournament appearance since 1977, is leading the Cougars with a 1 record, a 2.38 earned-run average and six saves. In 34 innings of work, the hard-throwing Silkwood collected 38 strike outs, while walking

Cardinals' Class A team in Gastonia, N.C. On his way to a first-team selection to the NCAA-II All-Midwest Regional Team, Silkwood concluded his two-year career at SIUE by leading the Cougars with a 1 record, a 2.38 earned-run average and six saves. In 34 innings of work, the hard-throwing Silkwood collected 38 strike outs, while walking just 11 and allowing just nine earned runs on 32 hits. He also served as the Cougars' top designated hitter during the 1982 campaign. Posting 16 plate appearances, Silkwood pounded out a .351 average, second best on the squad. He also collected 40 hits, including 19 for extra bases (nine doubles, five triples and five home runs).

With the signing of Silkwood, the SIUE list of professional baseball signees has grown to 16 former Cougars since 1968. SIUE also joins active players John "Champ" Summers (San Francisco Giants) and Dennis Werth (Kansas City Royals) on the list of professionals who were collegiate standouts at SIUE.

Holmes at home in Easton, Pa.

By BUD SHAW EASTON, Pa. — The woman is hanging wash in the backyard, her hair set tight under a helmet of curlers, her housecoat looking like a gift from some birthday she no longer can remember. It is a scene that Rockwell would love.

But there is no way to paint small-town America in this particular neighborhood. The woman is hanging wash in the backyard, her hair set tight under a helmet of curlers, her housecoat looking like a gift from some birthday she no longer can remember. It is a scene that Rockwell would love.

The House has eight bedrooms and four bathrooms and there is no need to reread this sentence. Architects would explain that it's supposed to be the other way around, but then again you're not supposed to build a $500,000 house in a cluster of $50,000 homes.

An indoor pool shaped like a boxing glove graces the grounds. A Jacuzzi churns in the thumb of the glove, a touch Holmes borrowed from Liberace after having dipped in the pianist's baby-grand shaped waters a few years ago. Suffice it to say that if one wanted to dive into an indoor pool in Easton, he would be left with two choices — make friends with Larry Holmes or join the YMCA.

In one corner of the yard is a cable television dish that tunes in about 100 stations worldwide, one from as far away as the Falkland Islands (please, no jokes about The Black Sheep Squadron). The House, like everything else in the neighborhood, including the people, is white.

"When I first moved in, there were some problems," said Holmes. "Why? Because I'm black. I had bottles broken in my driveway, things knocked down out front. But I figure you're gonna find a couple of jerks wherever you go. Look, I've had people tell me my house is ugly on the outside (it's California white stucco). They told me it didn't make any sense to build it where it is. They said it would be better to build on a hill somewhere with a great, big yard. But I don't really care. I want to live next to people, not up on some hill with elephants and giraffes."

What the location of the House seems to say about Holmes is that he doesn't quite know how to be rich like the rich people piece suit him, the neighborhood in which he chose to live is a scuffed pair of sneakers. It is a scrappiness that he has learned to live with.

"People are always wondering why I don't move to a bigger city where I'd get more publicity and things like that," Holmes said. "But I'm comfortable here. I've been here 27 years, man. Easton is my big city. It's as simple as that."

If it came here, he'd cause a traffic jam. Larry Holmes walks down the street and people just nod their heads and smile. And he's not the only one who still see life in black and white. The Champ has Easton's respect, which is all that really matters.

"Larry Holmes has put us on the map," says Robert Kiser, Easton's director of public services. "I go on a business trip to Atlanta or some place like that, and the first thing anybody asks is, 'How's Larry Holmes doing?' We had a last year. We closed off Center Square and had the governor in for the day."

Holmes came to Easton from Culbert, Ga., at the age of 5, quit school after the seventh grade and went to work. One of 15 children who grew up after his father left the family, Holmes decided there were easier ways to make money than working as a shoe-shine boy and driving a truck for a pants company.

Now, 27 years later, he has made more than $20 million in the fight game and has poured part of that fortune right back into the town that reminds him of himself. "Everything I want out of life," Holmes says, "is right here."

Now is the time for all good men to check tax assessments, Cruse urges

By NANCY WEIL
of the Press-Record
If Von Dee Cruse, Granite City Township assessor, has his way, residents will be lined up for blocks around city hall when the annual tax bills are published in a few weeks.

Cruse's wish stems from years past when Granite City residents waited too long to voice their complaints or ask questions about their property tax rates and assessments. Once the rates are published, the taxpayer has just 30 days to file a complaint or check with Cruse's office about the accuracy of their rates. "The problem is that people realize they have a tax problem too late," he said. Many taxpayers assume their bills are accurate and pay them, only to realize they were not given proper exemptions or the rates were not correct.

Once a bill is paid, there is little, if anything, that can be done. Presently, there is "a big, legal thing" going on, he said concerning last year's rates and assessments. Senior citizens (65 and older) were not always given the proper exemption. About 108 persons actually filed grievances last year, he said. "Out of that, about 40 didn't show up for their hearings," Cruse said. The 103 grievances came from a total of approximately 13,000 parcels of land and improvements assessed by Cruse and his staff last year.

Despite the grievances, Cruse is confident his staff is well qualified and he encourages taxpayers to come in with their questions. It is a good idea, he indicated, for taxpayers to make visits to his office, even if they have no specific complaints, just to see how their rates are assessed.

"I welcome people to come down and see how we arrived at their assessments," he said. Some people believe that property assessments are done through guesswork, but this is not the case, according to Cruse. Four years ago, there was some guesswork involved, but since 1979, Cruse and his staff have followed a set of guidelines established by the state for property assessments and setting tax rates.

Still, there can be errors as the assessments are shuffled through three various departments on different governmental levels.

Persons whose taxes are paid through escrow accounts with their mortgages should be particularly concerned because they seldom see the tax bills before they are paid, he said.

"They should see that they get what is entitled to them," he said.

Another problem Cruse runs into frequently is lack of records because some people do not take out building permits for home improvements and maintenance work. He said that simple maintenance does not increase the tax rate and the only thing with impact is an addition of actual living space.

For the benefit of those reluctant to obtain building permits, Cruse said, there really is no reason to fear increased tax rates. Assessments are made on the basis of property record cards, building permits, zoning permits and photographs of the property. Neighborhoods also are given ratings, in order to aid in making uniform assessments, he said. "Uniform assessments are the most important. It's important that everyone is treated fairly," he said. If taxpayers do not believe they have been treated fairly, it is important to visit his office, he said.

Sharon Rogers appointed

Sharon Rogers, financial secretary of the United Steelworkers of America Local No. 1063, (American Steel), has been appointed volunteer chairperson of the 1982 Tri-Cities Area United Way Labor Participation Committee. It was announced recently by United Way Campaign Chairman, Roger Higgins.

Higgins said, "This key committee is a vital link in the development of programs designed to increase fair share giving among organized labor, and enhance the effectiveness of Community Service Programs in the local community."

Sharon is active in her local union and is currently serving as Chairperson of No. 1063, Community Service Committee. She has received the advanced Union Counselor certificate from the Tri-City Trades and Labor Council, and National Department of Community Services, AFL-CIO, including her certification by the United Way as an information and referral volunteer. Sharon has been involved with the American Red Cross in organizing C.P.R. and first aid courses, and is a graduate of Illinois State AFL-CIO Community Services School.

In her capacity as Labor Participation Committee Chairperson, she will also serve as unit leader in the Professional Division, under Chairman Paul Hackiewicz.

SIUE studying offer to join Edwardsville sewers

A proposal to connect the sewerage system at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville with the sewerage system of the City of Edwardsville continues to be considered by the university, according to Luther D. Stalter, director of Supporting Services at SIUE.

Stalter said the university was first approached by representatives of Edwardsville concerning the matter in January and a formal proposal was received in April from Juneau Associates, consulting engineers of Granite City, on behalf of the city. Following a review of the plan by officials of SIUE and legal counsel, the university requested a meeting with Edwardsville representatives on June 2 to verify preliminary estimates of costs involved in the proposed project.

"The matter has been under continuous review as the university considers the feasibility and advisability of the project," Stalter said. The director of Supporting Services pointed out that a number of factors require thorough study before a specific recommendation can be made. The initial capital costs pose a problem for the university because of the current unavailability of state capital funds. Costs involved in the project relate to internal modifications, construction of a 4,400-foot interceptor sewer line, a share of the cost of constructing the new Edwardsville wastewater treatment plant and related facilities and annual user charges.

Another problem being considered by the university is the potential impact on the training program SIUE's Environmental Resources Training Center (ERTC), Stalter said. He pointed out that if the university's wastewater treatment plant is closed, it could impact the ERTC, designated by the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency as the official state trainer for wastewater and water supply operators.

3 PERSONS BEATEN
The same individual allegedly was responsible for three separate assaults in Madison this month, striking a man in the face near Alton Avenue, striking and cutting the left eye area of Kevin Trebing, 23, of 1914 Sken St. in the 800 block of Alton Avenue, and holding a 15-year-old boy as a girl struck him about the lips and face at Eighth Street and Alton Avenue.

Both sides made mistakes during Illinois ERA fuss

As the clock ticks down to midnight Wednesday, the midnight ratification of the Equal Rights Amendment, it becomes increasingly clear that ERA is a dead issue.

Why? Is the question many are asking. The ERA is innocent enough — equal treatment for equal people — equal pay for equal work.

Some opponents feared a rash of lawsuits from nearly every working woman, seeking pay equal to the men in their offices and factories who were doing the same job. Laws guaranteeing that right are already on the books and we find little justification for that fear.

"Women will be drafted," was another argument used. Actually, we don't like the idea of our sons being drafted any better than the idea of our daughters being drafted.

We don't like the scare tactics that were used by the ERA opponents. However, neither do we approve of the tactics used by some of the ERA proponents. Chaining themselves to the railings at the Capital building was a juvenile act. Spraying animal blood on public buildings was a criminal act. True, peaceful resistance was effective in the equal rights cause, but it did not gain the ERA any votes in Illinois. We feel it cost ERA some votes here.

To those who felt starvation would aid ERA, we admire their bravery, but question their logic. Call it a hunger strike or a spiritual fast, the end result was a lot of suffering, but not one vote for ERA of which we are aware.

Some credit "frustration" for the extreme tactics. Temper tantrums would have been a more logical outlet for frustration.

We can only believe that the women's tactics were aimed at one objective — press coverage. That they got ERA they didn't.

We feel it will be a sad chapter in American history books. Some day, when equality of the sexes is logically upon us, historians will look back and shake their heads in wonder at what has unfolded in Illinois this month.

The Collinsville Herald gave perhaps too much credit to just one woman. We quote, "Phyllis Schlafly, no doubt, is celebrating. We hope the history books will treat her kindly. But we rather suspect that, in some future time when women will be paid equal wages for comparable work, she will be viewed as a pathetic and ludicrous figure."

"To some of us, she already is."

"The supreme irony, of course, will be that a woman worked so hard to keep women from gaining equality in the marketplace."

Postal Service turnaround is a welcome change in U.S.

The U.S. Postal Service is singing a different tune nowadays and it's a welcome change.

In February, not so long ago, the Postal Service was reporting that it had run up a deficit of $88 million during fiscal 1981, which ended last Sept. 30.

In sharp contrast to the situation last year, the mail service has announced a surplus of $834 million in the current year.

If that trend continues, the Postal Service says it will not have to seek an increase in the postage rate it had expected would be necessary in 1983.

Postal patrons are deserving of a breather. Americans were hit with two increases last year that raised the first-class postage rate from 15 cents to the current 20 cents.

The surplus thus far is $200 million higher than it was in March. Although the Postal Service expects to continue with a surplus, it is not expected to continue its present growth.

Nevertheless, getting out of the red ink is quite an accomplishment. Such good years are a rarity. The agency's first surplus in 24 years, totaling $269.9 million, was recorded in 1979.

Another surplus only three years later would set a record well worth noting and while making his appointed rounds.

Volkswagen financial branch is approved

Governor James R. Thompson announced Thursday that the Department of Financial Institutions has approved finance agency licenses to a wholly-owned financing branch of Volkswagen of America.

"By approving VW Credit's application to offer financing for new car buyers, the state has cleared the way for another major company to expand its operations to Illinois," the governor said.

"VW Credit's application to begin financing car sales in Illinois is a strong indication that large companies view Illinois as a good market to do business, one with the resources to benefit business, the state and its residents," he said.

The licenses, which cover three regional offices in Illinois, clear the way for VW Credit to begin working with the Chrysler Financial Corporation as part of an agreement between the two corporations. In the past, Chrysler will perform various services for VW Credit, including the administration of dealer-customer finance programs established by VW Credit for its dealers.

All funds involved in any financing, according to the agreement, will be provided by VW Credit, which will be responsible for all risk management.

The three offices will be located in Hillside, Arlington Heights and Calumet City.

Arthritis counseling available each month

More than 31 million men, women and children in the United States have arthritis, which is now considered the nation's number one crippling disease.

To help persons in the Quad-City area afflicted with the ailment, the Arthritis Foundation's center in Illinois is expanding its outreach program to include special counseling sessions one day each month at the Coordinated Youth Services Center, Niedringhaus and Delmar avenues.

Nadine Rain, Madison county coordinator for the Arthritis Foundation, said its services are free and explained the center is located on the ground floor of the CVS Center from 9 a.m. until 12 noon on the fourth Wed-

State to issue general obligation bonds July 8

General obligation bonds totaling $150 million will be offered for sale by the state of Illinois on Thursday, July 8. Budget Director Robert Mandeville has announced.

Sealed bids will be received until 11 a.m. July 8, in Room 320, at 180 North LaSalle Street, Chicago, Illinois.

The state sold $100 million in general obligation bonds Feb. 23, 1982, to a group led by the First Boston Corporation of New York at a net interest cost of 9.78 percent. The bonds had an average maturity of five years, with a maximum maturity of 10 years.

The July 8 bonds will have maturities of $6 million due on July 1 of each of the years from 1983 to 2007, with interest payable semi-annually on Jan. 1 and July 1 of each year. The average bond maturity is 13 years, with a maximum maturity of 25 years.

The state represents the state returning to its past practice of issuing bonds with a maximum maturity of 25 years.

The FORUM

Balanced budget amendment endangers seniors

To the Editor:

I have just received a Seniorgram from the National Council of Senior Citizens which I consider to be of utmost importance. I quote, "Have you noticed recently that good ideas take forever to get through Congress, but that bad ones seem to sail through in no time at all? Well, there is an idea around which is so bad it may well pass the Senate in which Congress produces a budget."

"Given the recent budget fiasco we have just been through, it is clear that the process does need some radical changes. But, the kind of reform now being discussed would be even worse than the system we have."

"The idea is to pass a constitutional amendment requiring Congress to adopt a balanced budget before the start of each fiscal year. Under the proposal now being considered in the Senate, the budget would have to be balanced primarily through spending reductions, not tax increases. This means the programs like Social Security, Medicare and Older Americans Act would have to be cut!"

"Perhaps very soon the Senate will take up Senate Joint Resolution 58, which would require Congress to pass an amendment implementing the balanced budget concept. Already, it has 52 co-sponsors. Moreover, the president has indicated that he strongly supports this measure, and in a separate but related approach, 31 states have passed resolutions calling for a constitutional convention to consider a balanced budget amendment."

"Only three more states need to adopt such a measure before a convention would have to be called."

"Here are just a few of the many reasons this amendment is a bad idea. —The constitution is not a place for making fiscal policy, economic aid should be dealt with in a more appropriate forum, the normal legislative process."

"By tying spending to the previous year's economy, the existing economic trends would be reinforced, creating boom and bust cycles. There would be limited flexibility in taxing and spending in order to make timely choices."

"There is no guarantee that the budget actually can be balanced. Estimates of revenues and expenditures are inexact at best. Moreover, there is no way to ensure that actual outlays will not exceed those set in the budget resolution without end-of-the-year program slashing."

"Finally, Congress would be stripped of some of its authority. A three-fifths majority would be required to allow deficit spending in any year. This is contrary to the American tradition of simple majority rule. Any failure associated with the budgetary process could easily be blamed on the constitution rather than the Congress. Congress would no longer be accountable for its actions."

"A balanced budget amendment is not likely to make the budget process more responsive or more democratic. It could instead inhibit the government in its efforts to stabilize the economy. What is needed instead is a responsible fiscal decision-making and strong leadership. Perhaps a revision of the legislative budget process is a more appropriate means to handle the current budget mess."

The Senate bill is scheduled to be considered by the full Senate very soon. We urge you to write, phone or send mailgrams to your senators stating that we believe the balanced budget amendment is not the way to resolve this country's economic problems. We also recommend contacting your representative to prevent further consideration by the House. Approval in either the Senate or the House could give additional impetus to the states to push for a constitutional convention."

Swift justice is encouraged

To the Editor:

The accusation is that the fault lies in our society. I believe it is the wrong diagnosis. If we blame the entire society, there are many who will be treated with compassion and criminals, if a free society is to exist.

Society is not violent, but society must bring these criminals of society under quick control. And have compassion and help the mentally ill. If the near death of good men doesn't wake us up, I don't know what will.

GC treatment fee seems fair

To the Editor:

Do we need the Sewer Treatment Plant? I will say yes, we do, so do the controller says.

Raise the fee $9 per quarter. It amounts to 10 cents per day. If anyone can't afford that, he is in a bad shape.

I am on a fixed income. I pay my bills. So city Hall, from the top to the bottom, lets work together.

If we have the better things of life, we have to pay for them.

Chicago gets tentative OK as site for World's Fair

Governor James R. Thompson commended the Bureau of International Expositions, Thursday tentatively deciding to hold the 1992 World's Fair in Chicago.

"The committee's tentative decision to hold the 1992 World's Fair in Chicago is thrilling for the city and the state of Illinois. Many people have worked very hard to bring the fair to Chicago and make the lakefront an international spotlight for a year of discovery during the 'Age of Discovery' Fair."

"State government is eager to participate in the decade of planning and preparation before the gates open at the 1992 Fair. The 1992 World's Fair Expositions knows from the luncheon that Mrs. Thompson and I hosted these executives. Mansion last month the state is ready to assist in any way it can to make Chicago the center of world attention 10 years from now."

"The entire state is looking forward to the World's Fair in Chicago and joins in the celebration of the committee's decision," Thompson concluded.

CAR LANDS IN DITCH; DRIVER HOSPITALIZED

A car driven by Carl P. Scott Jr., 22, of 2550 Waterman Ave., was found at the bottom of a ditch located at Clark and Primrose avenues, after a neighbor reported hearing an automobile traveling at a high rate of speed and then a loud crash.

Scott apparently walked from the car and obtained a ride to a relative's house from a friend. The relative drove Scott to St. Elizabeth Medical Center, where he was admitted and reported in good condition yesterday.

Officers reported to the scene about 3:30 a.m. Saturday and discovered the windshield of the car cracked and blood on the driver's side of the car.

ALLEGES MAN MAKES REPORT TO GET RIDE
Nathaniel McKinley Phillips, 38, of 1321 Oriole St., Venice, found himself charged with disorderly conduct last week when he allegedly called police, telling them to "come right away" as a disturbance was taking place near the Madison Post Office.

An officer was dispatched to Sixth Street and Madison Avenue after the operator-assisted call to the Madison Police Department was received. Approaching the intersection, the officer saw a man in a gold jacket standing on a parking area next to a service station, "frantically waving his arms."

"Asked where the disturbance was taking place, the man indicated inside the station where nothing was occurring, the officer said.

Phillips was questioned about his motives for placing the call and reporting an emergency situation and allegedly replied that he needed a ride to Venice. His arrest followed.

He was released on payment of a $50 cash bond.

Pontoon studies annual fee to guarantee ambulance service

by DONNA KIMBRO
of the Press-Record

A final recommendation to be submitted to Granite City for ambulance service for residents of the Pontoon Beach area and amendments to the village's current business license ordinance were the main topics of discussion Tuesday night at the Pontoon Beach Village Board meeting.

Donald C. Rea was pro-tem president at the session, in the absence of President Paul Bennett, who is hospitalized. Rea reported on a meeting June 15 with Granite City officials in an effort to form an alliance with Granite City for ambulance service in Pontoon Beach.

He said Chouteau Township offered a flat rate of $5,000 each year for service and, perhaps the Pontoon Beach board would consider following this plan to pay the amount not covered by individual insurances.

Trustee Glen Wilson

replied that he feels since Pontoon Beach is smaller in size and population, a $3,000 offer may be more feasible.

Rea read a statement report from Granite City for the year 1981 in which it was noted that the total cost for Pontoon Beach ambulance service amounted to $15,600 and only $10,542 was collected from the patients. The loss of $5,058, for the most part, is the difference between the amount Medicare and Illinois Public Aid paid and the actual cost of ambulance service.

With 111 calls reported for the year, 78 were to Pontoon Beach for residents there, 22 to the village for out-of-town residents and 11 to Pontoon Beach for Granite City residents.

Trustees voiced comments that a large number of calls are made for trips to the doctor or unnecessary transportation to the hospital and, with abuse of the service, the cost is considerable. To eliminate the unnecessary calls, the board agreed that all ambulance calls must be made through the dispatcher at the police station who will, in turn, call for service.

Another meeting was to be scheduled when the trustees will determine the actual offer which must be presented to city officials during a meeting Tuesday at 10 a.m. in Mayor Paul Schuler's office.

Rea noted that 41 percent of the 78 calls in Pontoon Beach were for persons on Medicare and IPA, which have a limited payment per call.

At the present time, the cost of securing an ambulance is a flat fee of $125, plus $2 per mile, or nearly $145 for each trip. Unless the board continues to negotiate with Granite City, Pontoon Beach will be without any ambulance service, Rea explained.

An amended ordinance relating to business licenses was read in full context, but one item on video machines was omitted, so the board tabled its decision until a complete revision is made and submitted at the next meeting.

A resident near the lagoon in Quiet Valley requested that water be drained or treated until it can dry out for health reasons, since there is a strong odor from the stagnant water. The lagoon is no longer owned by the village of Pontoon Beach, but is a part of Quality Sand Co. The board agreed to talk with the owners and seek a feasible solution to the problem.

The board agreed to uphold a decision of the Madison County Zoning Board to issue a 90-day permit to the St. Francis Investment Co., located at 4149 Pontoon Road, to use a mobile home for a temporary restroom adjacent to a Wet Willie slide which is to be constructed on the site. The permit will expire on Sept. 15, the board explained.

Plan for Labor Day Parade

The Tri-City Trades and Labor Council will again this year sponsor a Labor Day Parade. The co-chairmen for this year's event will be Trades Council President Ed Reiser and Robert Means, sub-district director for the United Steelworkers of America.

The co-chairmen said that this year's parade "has all the prospects of a bigger and better parade than last year, which was a huge success."

They also stated that the parade route will be the same as last year, starting in downtown Granite City, in the 1900 block of Edison Avenue, enabling the various participating groups to utilize the parking lots for assembly.

The parade then will proceed to Niedringhaus Avenue to the vicinity of the Granite City High School South and Wilson Park for disassembly.

The Parade Committee, at its last meeting, unanimously approved the selection of Jaclyn Greer as Labor Day queen to lead the parade. Miss Greer is currently Junior Miss of Granite City and is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Greer, Rural Route One, Granite City. She is a member of Lost 30 at National Steel Company.

The Parade Committee also has approved trophies to be awarded to the float with the best theme, the best marching unit and for the best percentage of participation by a labor organization. At the conclusion of the parade, a tug-of-war will take place between last year's winner, the Carpenter's District Council, and several other labor affiliations who have declared they will unseat the Carpenters and claim the trophy for that particular event.

The two Granite City high school bands have indicated their desire to gain be in the parade, along with labor organization and fraternal organization bands.

It is hoped by the co-chairmen that all labor affiliations will take an active part in this year's parade, they indicated. All interested affiliations and participants are urged to contact Reiser or Means at 492-1190 or 877-4330.

Course to study effectiveness of women in corporate atmosphere

A course to teach women in management positions how to relate to women in the corporate atmosphere will be offered at Belleville Area College this fall.

Karen Brown, instructor for the course, said: "I'm a strong believer that women can have a lot of education in business, but many women are not prepared for the demands and stress business places on them."

"Problems in Business — Women Aspiring to Management" will help students build confidence and become organized to deal with business situations, the instructor said.

"Very frequently when women first go out into a managerial and decision-making atmosphere, it can be overwhelming," she said. She cited examples of being the only woman at a meeting and having to travel by herself for business.

Women also need to learn to deal with the high level of competition without losing their perception, she said, adding that, in today's business environment, women with the ability to humanize situations can be very valuable.

"There is a need for this type of course because women are just beginning to achieve in management," she said. "They need to know how to become more powerful in the business structure."

While aimed at women, the instructor said the information can be valuable to men as well. It can be beneficial to men who don't know how to relate to women in management positions.

During the course, Brown covers resume writing and interview skills, time management, stress management, communication, assertiveness training, negotiating skills, harassment on the job, travel and career planning.

Karen Brown's background in business includes work in industry and education. As cooperative coordinator for O'Fallon High School, she helps students find jobs that will help them in their future careers.

She has a bachelor's degree from Benedictine College in Atchinson, Kan., and a master's of business administration from Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville.

"Problems in Business — Women Aspiring to Management" will meet from 7 to 8:45 Thursdays for 16 weeks beginning Sept. 2 at the BAC main campus, 2500 Carlyle Road, Belleville. Registration is from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. Mondays through Thursdays and from 9 a.m.

to 3:30 p.m. Fridays at the Registrar's Office, room 2306, at the main campus. Phone registration will be July 12 to 26.

Registration ends Wednesday, Aug. 25.

Poetry wins state award

The "Sou'wester," a magazine of poetry and fiction published by the department of English language and literature at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville, is one of the recipients of the Illinois Arts Council literary awards for 1982.

The award was given for a short piece of fiction, "Too Much Butter," by Phyllis Janik. Mrs. Janik teaches creative writing and literature at Moraine Valley Community College in Palos Hills. She is coordinator for the American Writers Congress in Chicago.

The literary magazine will receive a cash award of $400 from the Illinois Arts Council for publishing the article.

Award winners were selected from 105 nominations by Rosellen Brown of Peterborough, N.H., Eleanor Risteen Gordon of Evanston and Robert Schuler of Menomonee, Wis. Placed against the background of autumn and the time of harvest, "Too Much Butter" is a celebration of appetite.

Early in the essay, the author writes: "Look at the harvest: a set of full-grown teeth laughing in the face of winter, that dark side of the mirror just around the corner. They remember the tender pink gums of spring, then cutting winter away like the open jaws of scissors."

"The thought is repeated near the end, when Mrs. Janik writes, 'The harvest. Like a set of full-grown teeth laughing even now in the face of winters past. The exquisite muscle, gone. Even the blubber, gone.'"

"The teeth, surrounded by nothing but the bones of what has dragged into the cave... And what, if anything, have we learned?... And whatever happens, will we all live happily, ever after cultivating our garden, growing our needs to satisfy our wants?"

Or, she concludes, "will we see the day when we... find at last the food we like and gorge ourselves..."

Newcome earns his law degree

Jonathan Brooks Newcomb, son of Elizabeth Newcomb of Granite City and Clifton Newcomb of Alton, received the Juris Doctor (J.D.) degree from Northwestern University at commencement exercises this month in Evanston, Ill. He was one of two law students to graduate magna cum laude and one of 16 law students to be inducted into the Order of the Coif, an honor bestowed upon the top 10 percent of each law school graduating class.

Approximately 3,500 degrees, diplomas and certificates were conferred by Northwestern President Robert H. Strotz at the 124th annual commencement, held in McGraw Memorial Hall.

The ceremony was followed by a reception where School of Law Dean David S. Ruder personally congratulated each of the 157 graduates. A 1978 graduate of Granite City North High School, Newcomb holds a bachelor of arts degree in political science from Northwestern. During law school, he was selected for the Northwestern University Law Review after his first year and served as articles editor from March of 1981 to March of 1982. He also was the author of "Market Share Liability for Defective Products: An Ill-Advised Remedy for the Problem of Identification," published in the 1981 law review.

Newcomb has accepted the Chicago firm of Kirkland & Ellis.

Cosell knows art of listening, too

By DON FREEMAN

In any assessment of world-class talkers, Howard Cosell must rank high on the upper rung on all counts — his voice, which can rise to eloquent heights and then at once descend to a dramatic whisper, his style, which suggests Perry Mason with a case of untoward aggression, and the sheer command of his presence.

But let it be noted as well that Howard is a pretty fair listener. And he is possessed of a knack for tossing out, with the inquisitor's crackle or with hushed delicacy, the most productive of questions. Howard Cosell is, in fact, a very good (if underrated) interviewer, and by way of illustration I point to the "ABC Sportsbeat" program which keeps many sporting buffs occupied on Sunday afternoons.

Some weeks ago on "ABC Sportsbeat," Cosell interviewed Kenny Boyer, the old ballplayer who was stricken with cancer. It was a warm, intelligent, sensitive, altogether first-rate interview, and it was exclusive. The next day the story was all over the wire services — all of the Kenny Boyer's quotes but not a word crediting the interviewer, namely Cosell.

The wire services do not tell me how to write a column, and I shall resist from informing them of the tenets of journalistic courtesy. Furthermore, it was Cosell who was instrumental in arranging a sports dinner from which $103,000 was raised as a benefit for Kenny Boyer. And Cosell was the principal speaker.

On "ABC Sportsbeat" is displayed another side of the controversial and many-sided Cosell. There was a recent interview, for instance, with Billy Martin. "We're old friends, Billy Martin and me," Cosell is saying in response to a query about that particular interview. "Billy's first interview as a big leaguer was with me. Billy's first interview when he came out of the Army was with me. Every key interview in his time with the New York Yankees was with me. When news was breaking, I could always call Billy Martin.

"I know Billy Martin from way back," Howard says, "and Billy knows me from way back when nobody even knew who I was around the New York sporting world except that I was a lawyer who had left the bar for the adventure of sports journalism. And there I was, going to the various sports locales with a 45-pound tape recorder. People tend to think now that I started at the top. Well, I didn't. I worked my way up, step by step, and it hasn't been easy."

It is possible that Howard developed his interviewing style in those early days, with that ponderous recording gadget he would lug around. His voice always did cut like a laser, a voice that could dominate a room. And he must have learned at some point how to pull good quotes out of his subjects.

Interviewed by Cosell last month, Billy Martin discussed his villainous image: "For those people out there who don't like me, I hope some day they get to know me as Billy Martin the man — not Billy Martin the ballplayer ... or Billy Martin the manager, the one they read about. A lot of people think when they go to talk to me that I'm going to kick dirt on them or punch them ... But they'll find out there's another Billy Martin if they give him a chance."

And from Herschel

Walker, the usually retiring University of Georgia football star, talking to Cosell about challenging the NFL's eligibility rule: "Everyone told me when I was growing up that America is a place of freedom. And I don't think I have the right, right now, to be free to answer whether I want to play professional ball or not ... I think there were a lot of college athletes that came up like I did, and they thought the same way I'm thinking now. But I think that I'm thinking better because I look at my life, not at other people."

Some months ago, Cosell had himself an exclusive report with Wojtek Fibak, the Polish tennis star, who said then: "I wanted to go back to Poland and my wife, Eva, said that for the sake of my children and my family here, I should not go ... I'm not afraid to go, not at other people." Some months ago, Cosell had himself an exclusive report with Wojtek Fibak, the Polish tennis star, who said then: "I wanted to go back to Poland and my wife, Eva, said that for the sake of my children and my family here, I should not go ... I'm not afraid to go, not at other people."
